Movement on Bipartisan Infrastructure Framework Expected This Week

The group of 22 senators charged with negotiating the bipartisan $579 billion infrastructure bill have made progress in recent days on settling the final aspects of the legislation. Recent discussions have focused on various pay fors, including unspent COVID-19 relief funding and further delaying the Trump-era Medicare rebate rule. While there are still unspent funds in the Provider Relief Fund (PRF), those funds are likely not pay fors for this package. The drug pricing regulation would eliminate the rebates made by drug manufacturers to pharmacy benefit managers (PBMs) under Medicare Part D. Negotiators have confirmed that the rule would be delayed for less than a decade but have not specified the exact length of the delay. The Biden administration had already delayed the rule until 2023 following a court order. While agreement appears to have been reached on how to pay for the deal, senators are still waiting on a formal score from the Congressional Budget Office (CBO). Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer (D-N.Y.) attempted to start debate on the bill last week with a procedural vote, but was blocked by Republicans, who argued that they needed to see the final deal. According to a Senate negotiator, the legislative text of the agreement could be released as early as today. The Majority Leader has already stated that the chamber will remain in session beyond its scheduled recess date of August 9 to pass both the bipartisan infrastructure framework and the fiscal year (FY) 2022 budget resolution with reconciliation instructions. While Schumer had set a deadline of last Wednesday for reaching an agreement on the $3.5 trillion budget blueprint, Democrats have yet to achieve a consensus on top-line spending levels.

Yarmuth Comments on Inclusion of Medicaid Funding in Reconciliation Bill

House Budget Committee Chairman John Yarmuth (D-Ky.) stated that the House of Representatives may change the Senate's fiscal year (FY) 2022 budget resolution to include funding for Puerto Rico's Medicaid program. A temporary increase to territories' federal block grant funding for Medicaid expires September 30. Democrats plan to advance the $3.5 trillion budget reconciliation package this fall. Last week, the House Energy and Commerce Committee advanced a five-year extension (H.R. 4406) for Puerto Rico's Medicaid program and an eight-year extension for programs in American Samoa, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

House to Vote on Appropriations Minibus This Week

The House of Representatives plans to vote on a fiscal year (FY) 2022 minibus spending bill this week. The seven-bill package will use the Labor-Health and Human Services-Education legislation (H.R. 4502) as the vehicle, and will include the Agriculture-Food and Drug Administration (FDA), Energy and Water, Financial Services, Interior-Environment, Military Construction-Veterans Affairs, and Transportation-Housing and Urban Development (HUD) measures. Three separate appropriations bills — Commerce-Justice-Science (H.R. 4505), Legislative Branch (H.R. 4346), and State-Foreign Operations (H.R. 4373) — could also be considered on the floor this week. While Senate appropriators could begin their work on the Agriculture-FDA, Energy and Water, Military Construction-Veterans Affairs, and potentially Transportation-HUD measures prior to August recess, a continuing resolution (CR) is still expected to be necessary to avoid a government shutdown at the end of the fiscal year on September 30.

Approaching Deadline to Increase or Suspend Debt Limit

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen has sent a letter to lawmakers warning that unless Congress acts to suspend or increase the debt limit by August 2, the Treasury will need to take extraordinary measures to prevent the U.S. from defaulting on its obligations, which "would cause irreparable harm to the U.S. economy and the livelihoods of all Americans." She goes on to explain that the period of time that extraordinary measures may last is subject to "considerable uncertainty," but that there are scenarios in which they could be exhausted soon after Congress returns from its August recess. A Congressional Budget Office (CBO) report issued last week estimated that lawmakers will likely have until October or November to raise or suspend the debt limit. The debt limit has been on a two-year hold that expires on July 31. Senate Republicans have expressed opposition to a clean debt increase or suspension, with Budget Committee Ranking Member Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.) proposing to tie the debt limit measure to the creation of a body to address the financial sustainability of the Social Security and Medicare programs.

Breakthrough COVID-19 Cases Amongst Fully-Vaccinated in White House, Congress

Amidst the nationwide surge in the Delta variant, several fully-vaccinated White House and congressional lawmakers and staff have tested positive for COVID-19. Reports have indicated that the individuals are asymptomatic or experiencing mild, flu-like symptoms. Two positive cases have been reported on the House side, and one Senate staffer has tested positive for COVID-19. Rep. Vern Buchanan (R-Fla.) has also contracted the virus. According to a report from Politico, the Capitol attending physician is considering a return to the recommendation that people wear masks inside the House and Senate.

E&C Advances 16 Bipartisan Health Care Bills

The House Energy and Commerce Committee advanced by voice votes the following 16 health care-related bills last week, including measures to combat drug overdose deaths, extend Medicaid funding, improve maternal health, increase access to childhood vaccines, and study the impact of social determinants of health:

- H.R. 4369, National Centers of Excellence in Continuous Pharmaceutical Manufacturing Act,
- H.R. 654, Drug-Free Communities Pandemic Relief Act,

- H.R. 4026, Social Determinants of Health Data Analysis Act of 2021,

- H.R. 4406, Supporting Medicaid in the U.S. Territories Act.

Oversight Committee Advances PPE Supply Chain Bill

The House Committee on Oversight and Reform advanced the Made in America Pandemic Preparedness Act (H.R. 4470) last week in a unanimous vote. The bill aims to increase preparedness for future pandemics by addressing shortages in the domestic personal protective equipment (PPE) supply chain. The legislation would create a requirement that all PPE in the Strategic National Stockpile (SNS) be produced domestically, unless an item cannot be manufactured to meet the nation's demand for quality and quantity. The bill would also incentivize domestic manufacturing of PPE through a 20% tax credit to producers of equipment that qualifies for inclusion in the SNS.

E&C Leadership Seek Details on FDA Inspections

House Energy and Commerce Committee Chair Frank Pallone (D-N.J.) and Ranking Member Cathy McMorris Rodgers (R-Wash.) have sent a letter to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) requesting information about the agency's backlog of foreign inspections. The lawmakers express concerns that delays caused by the COVID-19 pandemic could impact the approval of new drug treatments and therapies. All non-critical, in-person inspections of foreign facilities were paused following the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. While the FDA has resumed normal domestic inspections, foreign facilities are still being inspected via record reviews and remote evaluations. "One year into the pandemic, the strategy for resuming all inspections and addressing the backlog of delayed inspections remains unclear," the letter states. The lawmakers ask for details regarding what actions the agency has taken, or plans to take, to mitigate experienced and potential delays of drug approval decisions.

Wyden, Grassley Urge Acceleration of OPO Enforcement

A bipartisan group of senators is urging the Biden administration to hasten reforms that would increase oversight of organ procurement organizations (OPOs). A recently finalized regulation entitled “Medicare and Medicaid Programs; Organ Procurement Organizations Conditions for Coverage: Revisions to the Outcome Measure Requirements for Organ Procurement Organizations” aims to increase the accountability of OPOs but would not provide for the decertification of failing OPOs until 2026. The lawmakers argue that this protracted timeline for enforcement is problematic given the increase in the demand for transplants as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. The letter to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) was led by Sens. Ron Wyden (D-Ore.) and Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa). The lawmakers highlight the particular impact of this issue on health equity, noting that “the failures of the current organ donation system disproportionately hurt patients of color.”

Lawmakers Seek Details on CHIRA Implementation

Sens. Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.) and Steve Daines (R-Mont.) are asking the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and the Department of Justice (DOJ) for information regarding efforts to combat anti-competitive conduct in the health insurance sector following the enactment of the Competitive Health Insurance Reform Act (CHIRA) of 2020. “Not much is publicly known about what the DOJ or the FTC have done to exercise their expanded authorities under the law,” the lawmakers state. The letter argues that CHIRA’s enactment will help antitrust authorities promote competition and transparency in the health care industry by “actually empowering them to examine—and take action against, where justified—potentially anticompetitive practices by the health care, dental, and vision insurance companies.”

Caregivers Caucus Revived

Sens. Michael Bennet (D-Colo.) and Shelley Moore Capito (R-W.V.) are restarting the Assisting Caregivers Today (ACT) Caucus, with the support of AARP. The group will advocate on behalf of the work of family caregivers and provide education about the challenges that family caregivers face in supporting family members with physical or cognitive limits. According to Bennet and Capito, the estimated value of family caregivers’ unpaid work was $470 billion in 2016.

ARPA-H Listening Sessions

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) and the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy (OSTP) are holding listening sessions with patient advocacy groups, researchers, scientific societies, and other stakeholders to inform the development of the Advanced Research Projects Agency for Health (ARPA-H). More details and registration information can be found on the NIH events webpage. Materials from the listening sessions, including agendas, summaries, presentations, and videos, will also be posted where applicable.

HHS Extends COVID-19 Emergency Declaration

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) extended its declaration of the COVID-19 pandemic as a public health emergency (PHE) on July 19. The emergency declaration has been in place since January 27, 2020. This latest renewal will be effective for an additional 90 days.

AHA Expresses Support for Health Worker Vaccine Requirements

The American Hospital Association (AHA) has joined dozens of provider and other health associations in support of vaccine mandates for health care workers. “The AHA supports hospitals and health systems that choose, based on local factors, to mandate COVID-19 vaccines for their workforce. Doing so will help protect the health and well-being of health care personnel and the patients and communities they proudly serve,” AHA CEO Rick Pollack stated in prepared remarks. America’s Essential Hospitals, the Association of American Medical Colleges, and the Association for Professionals in Infection Control and Epidemiology also support such requirements.
