Government Shutdown Now Longest in History

The partial government shutdown, in its fourth week, has set the record for the longest funding lapse in modern history – surpassing a 21-day shutdown between December 1995 and January 1996. Negotiations between congressional Democrats and President Trump remain at an impasse over the President’s demand for border wall funding with no clear path forward. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has reportedly made preparations for the shutdown to continue through the end of February. It remains unclear whether President Trump will declare a national emergency on the boarder in an attempt to circumvent Congress and fund the construction of a wall on the southern border.

Food and Drug Administration (FDA) Commissioner Scott Gottlieb, stating that the shutdown is one of the “most significant operational challenges” in the agency’s history, announced that the agency would use its limited resources to address the most critical safety work – moving funding from the pre-market review of new drugs to post-market drug safety surveillance. The FDA can’t operate using government funding during the shutdown, and it cannot accept new user fees, but it can use carry over fees from before the shutdown. Gottlieb also made assurances that the FDA is not experiencing any delays in its review of medical devices imported into the U.S.

Congress has passed legislation that would give federal workers back pay for work during the shutdown. The Senate passed S. 24 by voice vote last week; the bill was subsequently passed by the House by a vote of 411-7 and sent to President Trump for his signature. President Trump has signaled that he plans to sign the legislation.

In an attempt to jumpstart negotiations, Senators Rob Portman (R-Ohio) and Jerry Moran (R-Kan.) introduced legislation (S. 108) that would create a $25 billion fund for the provision of border security measures that are aligned with the President’s requests and codify protections for individuals currently covered by the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program. This proposed approach for ending the government shutdown has been rejected by Vice President Mike Pence. A group of Senate Republicans have also introduced legislation (S. 104) that would prevent a government shutdown should budget negotiations fail to meet spending deadlines in the future. In such cases, the bill would create an automatic continuing resolution (CR) to keep the government open. It was introduced by Sens. Rob Portman (R-Ohio), Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa), Steve Daines (R-Mont.), Johnny Isakson (R-Ga.), Mike Enzi (R-Wyo.), John Barrasso (R-Wyo.), Jim Risch (R-Idaho), Mike Lee (R-Utah), and Lisa Murkowski (R-Alaska).

The House of Representatives advanced legislation (H.R. 265) to fund the Agriculture Department and the FDA by a vote of 243-183. The bill would appropriate spending through the end of the current fiscal year (Sept. 30) and is based on legislation passed by the Senate last congress. It is a part of a package of bills House Democrats hope to use to pressure the Senate to vote to end the partial government shutdown. Senate Democrats withheld support for a Middle East policy measure as a protest of the partial government shutdown last week. Democratic leader Chuck Schumer (N.Y.) has called on the chamber to take up House-passed legislation that would re-open the government. The Senate is not expected to act because the White House has threatened to veto such spending measures if they do not include funding for a U.S.-Mexico border wall.

ACA Lawsuit Update

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the 5th Circuit has granted the Department of Justice's request that appeal proceedings in the Affordable Care Act (ACA) lawsuit be temporarily halted due to the partial government shutdown and consequent funding lapse affecting the agency. Attorneys general from a group of Democratic states have filed an appeal challenging a lower court's ruling that the law is unconstitutional. The law will remain in effect until the conclusion of the appeals process.

The House of Representatives passed another measure last week to permit House counsel to intervene in the lawsuit. H.Res. 6 passed by a vote of 235-192, with GOP Reps. John Katko (N.Y.), Brian Fitzpatrick (Pa.), and Tom Reed (N.Y.) joining Democrats in support of the resolution. The House had previously passed the same provision as a part of a rules package at the start of the 116th Congress.

House Passes PAHPA/OTC Legislation

The House of Representatives passed the Pandemic and All-Hazards Preparedness and Advancing Innovation Act of 2019 last week. The $7 billion reauthorization measure for emergency pandemic-prevention programs, which includes an overhaul of the over-the-counter (OTC) drug regulatory framework, passed by a vote of 401-17. Most of the emergency health programs covered by H.R. 269 expired at the end of September. The legislation would reauthorize them through fiscal year (FY) 2023. Similar legislation was passed by the House at the conclusion of the 115th Congress but was blocked in the Senate.

The House also passed H.R. 259 last week, which would provide $112 million in funding to continue projects under the Money Follows the Person Rebalancing Demonstration Grant for FY 2019. The bill would be paid for by reducing Medicaid funding for states that don't have asset verification programs for Medicaid eligibility determination beginning in 2021.

Democrats Introduce Package of Drug Pricing Legislation

Democrats in the House and Senate, led by Sen. Bernie Sanders (D-Vt.), have introduced a package of drug pricing legislation. The package includes the reintroduction of a bill that would tie drug prices to the cost paid in other countries, an idea similar to what the administration has proposed in its International Pricing Index (IPI) regulation. Under the Prescription Drug Price Relief Act (S.102/H.R. 465), the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) would be responsible for ensuring that Americans do not pay more for a product than the median price of Canada, U.K., France, Germany, and Japan. The Affordable and Safe Prescription Drug Importation Act (S. 97/H.R. 447) would legalize drug importation from Canada and other major countries. The Medicare Drug Price Negotiation Act (S. 99/H.R. 448) would allow Medicare to negotiate prices in Part D. Sanders was joined by Reps. Elijah Cummings (D-Md.), Ro Khanna (D-Calif.), Peter Welch (D-Vt.), Joe Neguse (D-Co.), Ilhan Omar (D-Minn.), and other cosponsors in unveiling the package. They called on the President to back the legislation.

In related news, HHS Secretary Alex Azar has requested a meeting with Rep. Cummings, and the two plan to meet this week to discuss the issue of drug pricing.

Klobuchar, Grassley Introduce Bipartisan Prescription Drug Cost Legislation

Sens. Amy Klobuchar (D-Minn.) and Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa) have introduced a bill aimed at curbing so-called pay-for-delay tactics allegedly used to deter market entry by generic manufacturers. Klobuchar and Grassley also introduced legislation last week that would allow Americans to import prescription drugs from Canadian pharmacies. The Safe and Affordable Drugs from Canada Act of 2019 would direct the FDA to permit personal importation of pharmaceuticals – excluding biologics and certain controlled substances like opioids – from approved Canadian pharmacies. Products could be purchased in supplies of 90-days or less and could not be resold. While Grassley opposes proposals to negotiate prices in Part D, he has said he will make drug prices a top priority as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He has also promised action on the CREATES Act, which would adjust risk evaluation and mitigation strategy (REMS) requirements with the aim of easing generic drugs' entry onto the market.

Bipartisan Request for Greater CMMI Transparency

Ways and Means Committee leadership have sent a letter to Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) Administrator Seema Verma requesting more transparency from the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Innovation (CMMI). The bipartisan letter from Chairman Richard Neal (D-Mass.) and Ranking Member Kevin Brady (R-Texas) asks Verma to reform CMMI processes to incorporate greater opportunity for public input as different delivery system and payment models are developed. The lawmakers ask for details on what models are under active consideration by the agency, and for a description of activities that CMS and CMMI intend to engage in to promote transparency and engage Congress, stakeholders, Medicare beneficiaries, and the public prior to each model being finalized. Chairman Neal has stated that a review of CMMI will be a priority for the committee this year. Ranking Member Brady hopes the panel will examine maternal mortality and health care fraud on a bipartisan basis as well.

Budget Chairman Requests Single-Payer CBO Report

House Budget Chairman John Yarmuth (D-Ky.) has written to the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) asking the agency to prepare a report on the administration, enrollment, coverage, and cost-sharing aspects of a single-payer health care system. "Members of Congress developing proposals to establish a single-payer system will face many important decisions that could have major implications for federal spending, national health care spending, and access to care," the letter states. Yarmuth asks CBO to consider other public health programs, cost-containment, how rates would be set, and how to pay for the system.

NIH Responds to Research Integrity Concerns

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) has responded to a request from Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa) regarding allegations of foreign influence on NIH-funded research. Lawrence Tabak, of NIH's Intramural Research Program, outlines the NIH's process for conducting background checks on employees, contractors, and affiliates, and the enforcement mechanisms the agency has at its disposal. Grassley responded that the letter left many of his initial questions unanswered, including how much money is dedicated to oversight functions and reporting mechanisms to protect the integrity of research at the NIH. The letter had indicated that this figure is difficult to quantify because it is only one component of the agency's compliance responsibilities, but that the NIH would continue to work with the senator to address his concerns.

House Dems Push for Prioritization of Opioid Crisis

More than 60 Democrats have signed a letter urging House leadership to make countering the opioid epidemic a priority for the 116th Congress. "At a time when our state and local partners are begging for federal assistance to combat the opioid crisis in their communities," the letter states, "Congress must answer the call through increased resources, creative solutions, and with more legislative staff." The signatories characterize themselves as members from states most impacted by the crisis.

Democratic Health Leaders Request Info on Short-Term Plans

Democratic health leaders have sent a letter to administration officials to reiterate a request for information on the White House plan to expand the availability of short-term health insurance plans. The lawmakers cite two outstanding letters from last year and request additional information on how the administration developed its final rulemaking. "We believe allowing for renewal or extension of short-term policies for up to 36 months is contrary to law, and that the creation of an entirely unregulated parallel market competing against the market for Qualified Health Plans goes against Congressional intent in enacting the comprehensive consumer protections embodied in the Affordable Care Act," the lawmakers wrote. The letter to HHS Secretary Alex Azar, Labor Secretary Alexander Acosta, Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin, and OMB Director Mick Mulvaney was signed by Energy and Commerce Chairman Frank Pallone (D-N.J.), Ways and Means Chairman Richard Neal (D-Mass.), Education and Labor Chairman Bobby Scott (D-Va.), Senate Finance Ranking Member Ron Wyden (D-Ore.), and Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions (HELP) Ranking Member Patty Murray (D-Wash.).

Dems Inquire on ACA User Fees

Democratic lawmakers have written to Secretary Azar and CMS Administrator Verma requesting details on how the administration spent the $1 billion in user fees generated by ACA marketplace exchanges. States and insurers that use healthcare.gov are charged a user fee that is used to cover the costs of running the exchanges during open enrollment. The letter questions whether the dedicated funding has been spent "effectively, legally, and appropriately" given cuts made by the administration to ACA marketing and outreach. The letter was signed by House Energy and Commerce Chairman Frank Pallone (D-N.J.), Ways and Means Chairman Richard Neal (D-Mass.), Education and Labor Chairman Bobby Scott (D-Va.), Senate Finance Ranking Member Ron Wyden (D-Ore.), and HELP Ranking Member Patty Murray (D-Wash.).

Medicaid Block Grant Plan Underway at CMS

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) is working to develop a plan that would provide states with additional flexibility to manage their Medicaid programs, while changing the program from an open-ended entitlement to block grant funding, according to sources within the Trump administration. Republicans had previously proposed Medicaid spending caps during the 2017 debate over repealing and replacing the ACA. CMS officials have voiced support for the concept of block grants. The idea remains a work in progress, though the agency hopes to announce the proposal early this year.
