Trump Unveils American Patients First Plan

President Trump delivered a highly anticipated address on his administration's plan to lower drug prices, increase competition, and reduce the amount that people pay in out-of-pocket costs for medication on Friday. American Patients First is a mix of policies already laid out in the White House budget proposal for fiscal year (FY) 2019 alongside some new ideas. It is designed to address four major aspects related to the cost of prescription drugs: high list prices, a lack of negotiating tools in government programs, rising out-of-pocket costs for consumers, and foreign governments freeriding off of American innovation. The blueprint includes both immediate actions and long-term strategies aimed at increasing competition, improving negotiation, incentivizing lower list prices, and reducing out-of-pocket costs. Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Alex Azar stated that he believes the vast majority of the plan can be accomplished through administrative action rather than legislative change.

The plan proposes a number of changes to reshape the Medicare program, including offering free generic drugs to seniors, requiring Part D plans to pass on a portion of rebates to the consumer, and capping certain out-of-pocket costs for Part D beneficiaries. The blueprint would reform how drugs in Medicare Part B are paid for and potentially shift more treatments into Part D, where there is more competition. The Administration is considering fiduciary status for pharmacy benefit managers (PBMs) as well as reforms to the 340B drug discount program. The plan proposes to crack down on manufacturer gaming of regulatory processes and eliminate the use of gag clauses by insurers. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) will also look into requiring the disclosure of prices in direct to consumer (DTC) advertising. Additionally, the President stated his intent to push other developed countries to loosen their price restrictions and pay more for pharmaceutical

The blueprint was well received by congressional Republicans. Chairman of the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP) Committee Lamar Alexander (R-Tenn.) issued a statement calling on the Senate to “consider the President’s plan carefully and promptly.” Republican leadership of the Energy and Commerce Committee issued a similar statement.

Democrats Release Their Own Drug Pricing Proposal

Democrats from the Affordable Prescription Drug Task Force have called on President Trump to endorse their own proposal to combat rising prescription drug prices. “A Better Deal” was released the day before the President’s anticipated speech on the subject. The lawmakers outline the trend of rising prescription drug prices under the Trump administration, while reminding the President of his campaign rhetoric denouncing the pharmaceutical industry and urging him to support their Better Deal strategy. The lawmakers support allowing Medicare to negotiate drug prices; requiring drug companies to be transparent about their costs of production; eliminating patent system abuse tactics that reduce competition; allowing the importation of prescriptions; and improving trade agreements to make drugs more affordable. The lawmakers also propose the creation of a “price gouging enforcer” that would fine drug companies if price increases surpass a certain threshold. The task force is led by Reps. Lloyd Doggett, Peter Welch, and Elijah Cummings (D-Md.). U.S. House Democratic Leader Nancy Pelosi (D-Calif.), U.S. Senate Democratic Leader Charles E. Schumer (D-N.Y.), Sen. Ron Wyden (D-Ore.), Sen. Bernie Sanders (I-Vt.), Rep. Jan Schakowsky (D-Ill.), and Sen. Amy Klobuchar (D-Minn.) were also in attendance at the unveiling of A Better Deal.

WH Proposes $15 Billion in Claw Backs

President Trump submitted a $15.4 billion rescission request to Congress last week. It is the largest single rescission request from a White House, and the first such request in nearly two decades. The claw back plan would impact previously approved spending across more than 30 programs. All of the money has been appropriated at least one year ago, improving its chance of passage through both chambers of Congress. Roughly half of cuts would come from the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP). The plan would rescind $5.1 billion from the CHIP Children’s Health Insurance Fund, which the White House says expired in September and cannot be legally used, despite the fact that it remains on the government’s balance sheet. The fund reimburses states for certain program expenses. The plan would also rescind $1.9 billion from CHIP’s Child Enrollment Contingency Fund. This pool is used in cases when program enrollment is higher than expected. According to the White House, while the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) does not expect any state to need payment from the fund in fiscal year (FY) 2018, funding would still be available should a state qualify for it. An additional $800 million in cuts would come from the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Innovation (CMMI). Other proposed rescissions include $252 million in funding designated for the 2015 Ebola outbreak. Because many of the items included in the request are unneeded or inactive accounts, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) estimates that package would only reduce the deficit by approximately $3 billion.

The proposal has been strongly criticized by Democrats, both for the type of programs it targets and for undermining the previously agreed upon work of Congress. The plan is expected to pass the House. It could pass the Senate if every Republican votes in support of passage, given Sen. John McCain’s expected absence from Washington. Lawmakers have 45 days from the receipt of the request to vote on the plan, or a scaled-back version of it, by a simple majority vote.

This package, introduced in Congress as H.R. 3, is expected to be the first of several claw back proposals submitted by the White House this year, though there is no targeted total dollar amount or timeline for future rescissions requests. Administration officials have stated that future proposals would include money appropriated in the most recent spending package passed in March of this year.

CDC Assists in DRC Ebola Response

The Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) has declared an outbreak of Ebola virus, prompting the World Health Organization (WHO) to release $1 million from its contingency fund to help stop the disease from spreading. Over the last five weeks, the country has seen 21 suspected Ebola cases, including 17 deaths. The outbreak is being monitored by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), which is one of several global health organizations working with DRC's Ministry of Health to help respond to the virus.

E&C Advances 25 Opioid Bills

The House Energy and Commerce Committee has advanced 25 bills to address the opioid epidemic for consideration by the full House of Representatives. The bipartisan proposals will expand access to medication assisted treatment (MAT) and programs to prevent the spread of infectious disease through injection drug use, strengthen the behavioral health care workforce, and encourage the use of non-opioid pain therapy. The Committee also passed H.R. 5333, the Over-the-Counter Monograph Safety, Innovation, and Reform Act of 2018 by voice vote. Lawmakers had planned to markup legislation that would waive Medicare telehealth requirements in certain cases in order to treat opioid use disorder or co-occurring mental illness, but the bill (H.R. 5603) was pulled at the last minute. The Committee will hold a second markup on opioid legislation on Thursday, at which time the Committee is expected to consider more controversial measures and bills that are still in the process of being finalized. While Chairman Greg Walden (R-Ore.) hoped to see a House floor vote on a broad opioid package next week, Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy's (R-Calif.) office has stated that the package won't reach the floor before June. According to Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP) Committee Chairman Lamar Alexander (R-Tenn.), the Senate will take up his Committee's opioid bill once the House completes its work.

W&M to Mark Up Four Opioid Legislative Packages

The House Ways and Means Committee has released its legislative proposals to combat the opioid crisis. The bills are aimed at reducing unnecessary prescribing, improving access to substance use disorder treatment, and expanding provider education on painkillers. The Committee plans to mark up the following four packages of legislation later this week, but has not yet noticed an Executive Session for consideration:

- H.R. 5773, "Preventing Addiction for Susceptible Seniors (PASS) Act" – Sponsored by Chairman Peter Roskam (R-Ill.), Rep. Terri Sewell (D-Ala.), Rep. Steve Knight (R-Calif.), and Rep. Kyrsten Sinema (D-Ariz.)
- H.R. 5774, "Combatting Opioid Abuse for Care in Hospitals (COACH) Act" – Sponsored by Rep. Carlos Curbelo (R-Fla.), Rep. Suzan DelBene (D-Wash.), Rep. Ted Budd (R-N.C.), and Rep. Ann McLane Kuster (D-N.H.)
- H.R. 5775, "Providing Reliable Options for Patients and Educational Resources (PROPER) Act" – Sponsored by Rep. Erik Paulsen (R-Minn.), Rep. Ron Kind (D-Wis.), Rep. Bruce Poliquin (R-Maine), and Rep. Conor Lamb (D-Pa.)
- H.R. 5776, "Medicare and Opioid Safe Treatment (MOST) Act" – Sponsored by Ranking Member Richard Neal (D-Mass.), Rep. George Holding (R-N.C.), Rep. Scott Taylor (R-Va.), and Rep. Matt Cartwright (D-Pa.)

First Lady Announces Official Platform

First Lady Melania Trump revealed her formal platform last week. Her "Be Best" comprehensive program will focus on three main issues: well-being, combating the opioid epidemic, and positivity on social media. Her speech highlighted the importance of healthy living and emotional health. It also noted the importance of healthy pregnancy and bringing awareness to neonatal abstinence syndrome (NAS).

Take Back Day Collects 475 Tons of Medication

This year's national Prescription Take Back Day resulted in the collection of nearly 475 tons of unwanted medications across 6,000 collection sites, the largest collection in the event's nine-year history. The event, which was started to encourage people not to simply throw away or flush unused prescriptions, is now a part of the Drug Enforcement Administration's (DEA) response to the opioid epidemic.

House VA Advances Choice Reform Bill

The House Veterans' Affairs Committee advanced the VA Mission Act (H.R. 5674) by a 20-2 vote last week. The legislation would overhaul veteran access to private sector care outside the VA health system. It includes $5.2 billion to fund the Veterans Choice Program until the new reforms can be implemented. The Choice Program is scheduled to run out of money by May 31. The bill would also entitle veterans to see a private doctor twice a year without a copay. Ranking Member Tim Walz (D-Minn.) and Rep. Mark Takano (D-Calif.) were the only two panel members to vote against the measure. They have expressed opposition to the movement of the Choice funding account from mandatory to discretionary spending.

The Committee also approved a measure that would increase VA research on medical marijuana. The bill, which was advanced unanimously, clarifies the agency's ability to research medical marijuana as a possible treatment for conditions such as post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). The VA is not currently permitted to prescribe medical marijuana and would be required to submit regular reports on the research to Congress.

In related news, Rep. Brian Mast (R-Fla.) has emerged as yet another candidate under consideration by President Trump for the nomination of Secretary of Veterans Affairs. Rep. Mast served in the U.S. Army for more than 12 years, earning medals including The Bronze Star Medal, The Army Commendation Medal for Valor, The Purple Heart Medal, and The Defense Meritorious Service Medal. He was the first member of Congress to open a district office in a VA facility. He lost both his legs after being wounded in Afghanistan in 2010.

Bipartisan ACA Fix Efforts Abandoned

Sen. Lamar Alexander (R-Tenn.) has stopped work on bipartisan efforts to fix the Affordable Care Act's (ACA) individual market. According to a letter to his supporters, the HELP Committee Chairman will now turn his focus to actions the Trump Administration can take to improve Obamacare. Sen. Alexander had spent months negotiating with Ranking Member Patty Murray (D-Wash.) on a package to bring down premiums in the individual health insurance market through the funding of cost-sharing reduction (CSR) payments, increasing flexibility for section 1332 state innovation waivers, and providing grants for the creation of reinsurance programs. The bipartisan talks stalled due to a dispute regarding abortion restrictions in funding for health insurers. "Now efforts to help Americans paying skyrocketing premiums will turn to the Trump Administration and the states," Alexander writes, "And our committee's efforts will turn to other pressing health care issues including opioids, overall health care costs, electronic health care records, prescription drugs prices and 340B."
